

CALL FOR SHORT COMMENTARIES

GPSG Pamphlet #6

First thoughts on the 7 July 2019 Parliamentary Elections in Greece

Edited by Panagiota Manoli

Deadline: Tuesday, 9 July 2019

Following the success of our previous election pamphlets, the Greek Politics Specialist Group (GPSG) will be publishing another collection of short comment pieces immediately after this month's parliamentary election that will take place on Sunday, July 7th.

The purpose of this pamphlet is to offer an initial rapid response from political and social scientists that can interpret and explain the results of the Greek elections to a global audience.

We invite short opinion/analysis articles (200-500 words, in English) analysing, interpreting or reflecting on the outcome, likely impact or any other aspect of the campaign or election. Contributions from all our members, affiliates and colleagues are welcome. The GPSG reserves the right to reject, shorten or edit pieces, including the title, before publication.

Please note that due to the volume of entries we receive and the extremely short turn-around timeframe, we can only publish pieces that have been carefully proof-read and require minimal editorial work.

The document will be published on our website one week after the election. It will also be circulated to thousands of Political Studies Association members, senior and junior academics, researchers, practitioners, as well as to our international media contacts, so please note that quotes from your piece may be used or reproduced by journalists.

Please email your piece to Panagiota Manoli at manolipan@gmail.com between Sunday, 7 July and midnight on Tuesday, 9 July which is the final deadline, along with your full title and institutional affiliation.
